

Compass Health Network's Assertive Community Treatment (ACT) is a community-based support system designed to meet the behavioral needs of Transitional Age Youth (ages 16-25).

As emerging adults, ACT youth are beginning to experience making decisions about housing, employment, education, finances and their own healthcare needs. We understand that behavioral health issues can make this transition even harder to navigate.

ACT individuals may also struggle with co-occurring substance abuse disorders, homelessness or other emotional needs.

ACT is an evidence-based service proven to be successful for individuals who need more frequent contact or additional support to live successful lives. Our services are available daily.

The Union ACT-TAY team serves those in Franklin County.
